Section G: International Conflicts – Source-based Questions

1. 3.1 (2) Study the sources below and answer the questions that follow.

Source I

The following maps show Eastern Europe before and after the First World War.

Source II

An excerpt adapted from a petition by the inhabitants of Saarbrücken in December 1918 (G.M.D. Howat, European History, 1789-1970, Edward Arnold, 1973).

We are German as regards race, history, language and sentiment. We desire to remain united with our German brothers even in this time of trouble and misfortune. For more than 900 years Saarbrücken was an independent German principality. In 1807, at the time of the French Revolution, it was annexed to France, but was restored to Germany by the Second Peace of Paris in 1815, as a part of the Prussian Rhine province. The annexation of the region of Saarbrücken to France for the second time would be inconsistent with the principles of peace settlement laid down by President Wilson.

A. With reference to Source I, name three new nation-states set up in Eastern Europe after the First World War.

B. According to Source II, what was the settlement of Saarbrücken after the First World War?

C. What was the attitude of the inhabitants of Saarbrücken towards the settlement you mentioned in question B? Explain your answer with reference to Source II.

D. How did the post-WWI settlement affect the political situation in Eastern Europe? Explain your answer with reference to Sources I and II, and using your own knowledge.
